[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, January [illegible].—Apparently [illegible] park is to be turned over [illegible] vandals. Rufus Hatch has been here several weeks [illegible] at congress and has finally succeeded [illegible] getting the senate committee on territories [illegible] a bill giving the secretary of interior the right to lease land in the park for hotel purposes. The [illegible] stipulates however that no exclusive [illegible] be granted anyone. This was not what Hatch [illegible], but he is not afraid of the competition that [illegible] have to be met. The bill introduced [illegible] stringent provisions for the protection of [illegible] birds and natural beauties of the park [illegible] fines ranging from $50 to $250 and imprisonment six months to a year are provided for [illegible] of the regulations for preservation of [illegible] features of the park. However the [illegible] of the park is scanty and although the [illegible] interior is authorized to call upon the war for soldiers to enforce the regulations [illegible] park, it yet goes on. If the place is to [illegible] for hotels, it will be extremely difficult [illegible] the regulations.

Troubles of Stockmen.

[illegible] Kas., Jan. 6.—There is excitement here among [illegible] holding ranches on the Cherokee [illegible] out of a Washington dispatch to the [illegible] orders have been issued from the interior department for the removal of all stock men [illegible]. This state of affairs seems to have [illegible] about by an attempt on the part of the [illegible] Cattle company to fence in a large [illegible] has been occupied by small stock [illegible] have paid taxes to the Cherokee [illegible] privilege of herding cattle on the outlet [illegible] that these small stockholders, together [illegible] in Kansas, who have been in the habit [illegible] stock graze on the Cherokee lands [illegible] anything to the Indians for the state [illegible] made certain statements to Secretary [illegible] which induced him to issue a sweeping [illegible] all stock men as well as the Standard [illegible], without any injustice that may be [illegible] who paid taxes to the Cherokees in good [illegible] bought the privilege of fencing and erecting [illegible] for the accommodation of their [illegible].

[illegible] Teller's order is virtually acknowledgment that the outlet belonged [illegible] States, and therefore the Cherokees [illegible] to make contracts for herding stock [illegible] should his order be carried out under [illegible] along the border will [illegible] have the right to locate on the [illegible]. The result will be that within [illegible] after the stock men are removed a [illegible] of settlers upon the land will be made.

Lawyers' War.

[illegible] Jan. 7.—The Times' St. Louis special says [illegible] Henderson, ex-U. S. senator, and Col. [illegible], ex-congressman and founder of Morrison [illegible], had a lively encounter in the circuit [illegible] today. Both are attorneys and are awaiting [illegible] of Judge Horner, before whom they [illegible]. Conversation turned upon [illegible] national bank and Col. [illegible] remark which irritated Gen. [illegible] his connection therewith. The [illegible] sharply from a brief he was [illegible]. Morrison, you are a liar. [illegible] with rage and dealt Gen. [illegible] the head with his walking [illegible]. Henderson sprang to his feet, knocked [illegible] into a chair with a doubled fist [illegible] to punish him severely. [illegible] D. L. Jewett and others sitting [illegible], interfered, and the parties were [illegible]. Both express deep regret at the painful [illegible] and when Judge Horner arrived on the [illegible] Henderson resumed his argument as if [illegible] had happened.

Among other recent [illegible] in the Herald office, is the appointment of [illegible] to the city editorship.

[illegible] Sugar Monopoly.

[illegible] Jan. 7.—The Commercial Bulletin gives [illegible] views of a Boston sugar merchant [illegible] treaty. It says it is plain the [illegible] recommended by the tariff commission [illegible] the interest of the Louisiana [illegible] manufacturer, as well as the San [illegible], with whom the commission [illegible] been in sympathy and in opposition [illegible] knowledge of the sugar [illegible] would give little, if any, re[illegible] views generally were that not [illegible] was necessary to be of [illegible], which would still [illegible] to revise probably [illegible] editorial on the principal [illegible] monopolist whose methods it [illegible].

[illegible] answered [illegible] that he had been inspected [illegible] powers and [illegible] of the presidency. Answering [illegible] said the constitution expressly [illegible] that the vice president was [illegible] the inability of the president and that [illegible] of that and had Arthur refused to assume [illegible] president upon assuming that [illegible] still vice president acting as president. [illegible] Arthur [illegible].

[illegible] salary also [illegible] of the United States. [Laughter.]

Lapham said [illegible] have drawn it and presented it to Mrs. [illegible] had not [illegible] question [illegible] seriously.

Hoar insisted it was.

Lapham replied that though the office of president did not devolve upon the vice president, the powers and duties of the office did, and he knew of no more important power attached to the office than the power to draw the salary. [Laughter.]

Jones asked what was left with the president when the powers and duties of office had devolved upon the vice president.

Lapham said if the president was dead certainly not much remained with him, but if he was simply laboring under inability to perform his duties the office itself remained with him and he might afterwards resume performance of its duties.

Jones—The constitution does not provide for that.

Morrill introduced a joint resolution providing for termination of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty. Tabled till Monday.

After executive session senate adjourned.

House.

The speaker presented a message of the president asking a $[illegible] appropriation to complete the tenth census. Referred.

White offered a resolution that Illinois capitalists have now in bonded warehouses large quantities of distilled spirits and asking the commissioner of internal revenue the amount of those spirits and whether the presence of a commissioner is required at this time in Illinois preparatory to collection of taxes on large quantities of distilled spirits which under the Carlisle bill have been allowed to remain in bond three years at a loss of many millions. Referred.

The shipping bill was then considered.

Page called for a vote on the shipping bill resulting in yeas [illegible], nays [illegible]. The bill was read and considered as in committee of the whole.

Page gave a statement of the labor of the joint shipping commission. The bill was the result of a very careful consideration and examination by the committee of gentlemen who had made the question of foreign carrying trade the study of a lifetime. It looked to the encouraging and revival of the great interest of ship building in the United States.

Cox delivered a speech in support of the shipping bill and after giving a detailed account of the navigation laws he said: Amid divided marine dominion in which one power alone has half the rule of the ocean, America sits scepterless and forlorn, dethroned, ignoble, dispirited and disgraced. The symbol of our nationality taking its stars from the vault of heaven by which brave men sail, is an unknown emblem upon the sea. We welcome every race to our shores in vessels of other nations. Our enormous surplus which feeds the world is for others to bear away. We gaze at the leviathans of commerce entering our harbors and darkening our sky with their pennons. The smoke and thunder of engines is under all her flag and the shouting of captains is in an alien tongue. Mr. Speaker, if you would that we should once more fly our ensign upon the sea, assist us to take off the burdens from our navigation and give to us first, last and always the indispensable condition of civilization by commerce—liberty. (Applause.)

Dingley and Hewitt spoke in the same strain.

Reagan secured the floor and the matter went over until Monday.

Forney and O'Neill from the committee on appropriations reported the fortification and pension appropriation bill, referred to committee of the whole.

[illegible] introduced a bill to equalize bounties of soldiers, sailors and marines. Referred.

House adjourned.

AMUSEMENT WORLD.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Mapleson's opera season, just closed, was the least satisfactory of any here for years. Of the nineteen operas given, says the Post, all but three or four were of the stalest possible description, consequently musical people left the academy in the hands of society people, but the latter having discovered Italian opera is no longer fashionable in Europe also gave it the cold shoulder here. Salvini makes his last appearance in America at the end of this month after the most profitable season yet realized.

The California branch of the Madison Square enterprise has already left here for San Francisco.

The Lingards have reorganized and begin the season Monday at Detroit. They will play "Divorcons" and "The Parvenue" en route to San Francisco.

Wallack has been playing in "Ours," to brilliant houses, at his own theater since Wednesday.

Mary Anderson begins in "Lady of Lyons" at the Fifth Avenue, on the 8th. The costumes are to be those of the first French empire.

The aid of the theaters has been asked for Bartholdi's statue, and the grand performance of a new play written by Miss Jean Burnside, entitled "Was he Right?" will be given February 3 at the Academy of Music, under the auspices of Wm. M. Evarts, Roscoe Conkling, Judge Noah Davis, Lester Wallack and others of the committee, and under patronage of the wealthiest and most fashionable ladies, among whom are Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

The Corsican Brothers at Booth's and "Parisian Romance" at the Union Square, are among the events for Monday night.

Miss Lucy [illegible] will assume the title role in Stephens and [illegible]'s new opera, Virginia, at Bijou theater on Tuesday evening, it being her first appearance. She is an American and sister of Mrs. Thomas H. Meyer.

Operatic War.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Of course Messrs. Mapleson and Herbert Gye, both of whom expected to have a hand in the management of the new opera house, think Mr. Abbey will make a dismal failure of it. Mapleson says that no city in the world will support two Italian opera houses and one of the two must collapse as soon as the stock holders get tired of providing the sinews of war. He says he tried [illegible] the other day [illegible] engage [illegible], the tenor, and told him that he had an offer of $400 a night for seventy performances, and asked if he could pay that sum. Mapleson answered emphatically "No," and he thinks Abbey, who engaged Campanini, cannot pay it either. As for Nilsson, whom Abbey engaged, Mapleson says she signed a contract with [illegible] and cannot [illegible] sign with any one else without his permission. Moreover Mapleson claims he has the refusal of every great artist in the world who can be induced to come to this country. The Gyes were negotiating for the new opera house when Abbey stepped in and secured it. There will probably be an opera war in this city soon.

Change the Name and Try it Again.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Mayor [illegible] said to Salmi Morse, who applied for a license to present the Passion Play, [illegible] grant this license would be to [illegible] the wish of the most influential [illegible] community. I think it my duty to decline granting it and that is my decision.

CANADA.

A Curious Case.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—A most extraordinary case of insanity was [illegible] yesterday. Mrs. Robert [illegible] wife of a [illegible] druggist, has been [illegible]. The family were averse [illegible] and she has been attended with unwearied [illegible] by her three daughters [illegible]. Mr. Coombs [illegible] his three daughters and nurse [illegible] very strange [illegible].

GAMBETTA.

The Republic's Greatest Statesman at Rest.

THE ENTIRE EUROPEAN CONTINENT HONOR THE DEAD.

Tributes from Every Land—Two Hundred Thousand People in the Funeral Procession—Incidents of the Day.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

PARIS, Jan. [illegible].—[illegible] as the procession started.

THE HEARSE.

The funeral car was [illegible] by six horses [illegible] black and white [illegible] with crape and two [illegible] palms [illegible] at stages of the car [illegible].

THE MOURNERS.

[illegible] was followed by relatives and friends of the deceased, representatives of President Grevy, [illegible] general, including Gen. Gallifet, senators and deputies, including Clemenceau and other members of the extreme left. Brisson, president of the chamber of deputies, and DePeyrat, vice president of the senate, headed the senators and deputies respectively. The procession was nearly two miles long.

The guard of honor preceding and flanking the catafalque was composed of the Republican guard, with the band playing a funeral dirge.

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND [illegible] IN LINE.

Conspicuous among which were Freemasons in complete uniform, and advocates and students of the University of Paris. An English delegation from Boulogne was present.

At 12:30 o'clock the head of the procession had reached Boulevard de Sebastopol, while numerous deputations were still waiting in the Esplanade des Invalides to take a place in the cortege. The end of the procession was still at Palais de Bourbon when the body arrived at Pere la Chaise cemetery. Numerous musical societies were playing in the procession besides military bands.

[illegible] BY ALL CLASSES AND [illegible].

The drapery on the statue of Strasbourg in place De la Concorde is particularly remarked.

Deputations from various departments used immense [illegible]. They are massed in the place Des Invalides and along the quai D'Orsay to Pont Bourbon, an area of twenty five thousand metres. A dense mass of spectators, a majority of whom had been in position half the night, occupied the street all the way to the cemetery. The remainder of the city was deserted.

Banners, wreaths and enormous masses of flowers were borne on men's shoulders. In the

[illegible] UNIVERSITE

From the square up to the esplanade were deputations who were unable to find a standing place and in the court of the Palais de Bourbon. The whole front of the latter building was draped in black, with large candelabra between the pillars giving out greenish flames. The whole [illegible] was drawn towards this point and a kind of shudder seemed to pass through the crowd at the formidable demonstration.

TRAFFIC STOPPED.

The spectacle was unexampled. From 8 o'clock this morning traffic has been stopped on the south side of the river. Deputations of special commissioners of police gave directions to every one in the crowding mass of deputations which came up, each anxious to secure a good position. From the Place de Les Invalides the scene was of the strangest imaginable aspect. Above the swaying mass which covered the ground there broke out from time to time cries of "Vive La Republique" [illegible] France and even "Vive Gambetta" was cried by the compact crowds assembled on the esplanade, which was [illegible] by people at a distance from the railing of the

GARDEN OF THE TUILERIES.

They were often two or three deep [illegible] on the stone work in an attitude of torture which they had occupied for several hours, while on the opposite side of the railings the [illegible] was lined with others clinging to the railing with one hand, and the other being free shaking their hats. Windows in the Hotel Continental had been hired at fabulous prices, even thirty guineas being mentioned. The crowd along the Rue Rivoli, and spectators in windows in fashionable neighborhoods, appeared cold and more influenced by motives of curiosity than the bulk of the populace.

All along the Rue de Rivoli flags [illegible] with crape were placed, but they were not very numerous. From the hotel De Ville they became thicker and appeared on every story. Churches were not called on to share in the celebrations, and shut their doors. The new hotel De Ville was

Though it would certainly have gone into mourning had it been the funeral of Henri Rochefort instead of Gambetta.

By the time the end of the procession had passed through Rue de Rivoli the head was nearly to cemetery Pere La Chaise, which was reached at 1:20.

The passing of the procession and of the crowd around the coffin at the entrance of the cemetery ended at 3:30. It was estimated that 300,000 persons were present.

Gambetta's father after mature reflection decided not to oppose the convictions of his son but has concluded to permit the funeral at Nice to be a civil one. The

MINISTER OF JUSTICE,

Speaking on behalf of the government, said he saluted the remains of a great citizen. The loss of such a man caused national grief. His fatherland mourned one who loved and defended it passionately. The deceased had loved France, and had faith in her destinies even when hope seemed to be in defiance of fortune and his resolution not to let her abdicate her place among the nations would ever be remembered. Apart from this heroic defense of his political principles and profound veneration for the will of the nation, commanded admiration. His life was employed entirely for France and the republic, and though he descended prematurely to the grave he left his country free—the master of its destinies. Under a respected popular government the republic's house is pacific and the dignity of France abroad will henceforth be beyond attack. The memory of Gambetta remains in the hearts of all patriots.

ALSACE LORRAINE.

Chaffour on behalf of the Alsace Lorraine societies in Paris said: Gambetta was the life and soul of the defense. At Bordeaux he represented our distress after our mutilation, and he remained the representative of our invincible hope. He had truly declared the inhabitants of the lost provinces were doubly Frenchmen. Generous [illegible] he died trusting in the future. His work remains, both that which he accomplished and that which was the [illegible] ambition of his life. Our tears for him are not the sterile ones of despair, our pain should be only that of men who return to work with fresh ardor. The great friend of Alsace Lorraine is dead, but France lives and will respond to the appeals to her glorious destiny. Vive la France.

BRISSON.

In his oration dwelt upon Gambetta's efforts to procure [illegible] republican union and [illegible] France. He concluded: Let not our grief be sterile over Gambetta's bier, [illegible] which are grouped his friends, men of all parties, representatives of the army and children of the provinces so dear to us. We swear we will labor to accomplish that unity which was Gambetta's prayer.

The government decided this morning to accept the responsibility for the speeches of M. M. Brisson, Senator Devès and Gen. Billot. All other speeches were of an absolutely private character.

[illegible]

Still the honors paid Gambetta were not to the man only but were consecrations of the [illegible] of his resistance to [illegible] invasion. They were the mark of gratitude to all who at Gambetta's call had bled for their country.

[illegible]

[illegible] disappointment was caused by the abandonment of the great boulevards, the most direct and usual road to Pere la Chaise, but there was [illegible]. [illegible] of the new year it was feared [illegible] with its many accidents and probably loss of life. It would have stopped the trade of large classes of poor hawkers who counted upon this resource to make up for the [illegible] of the past year.

The following route was adopted: Pont de la Concorde, Place de la Concorde, Rue de Rivoli, to boulevard Sebastopol, Rue de Turbigo, Place de la Republique, boulevard de Voltaire, Rue de la Roquette, avenue Phillipe Auguste and boulevard Menilmontant.

The following orators delivered speeches over the body at the entrance to Pere la Chaise: M. Henry Brisson in the name of the chamber of deputies, M. Peyrat for the senate, M. Deves for the government, M. Metivier for the Electoral Association of Belleville, M. Challemel Lacour for the government of national defense, M. E. Bauduin for the association of Alsace Lorraine, M. Kable for the Alsatians and M. [illegible] of the order of advocates for the bar of Paris.

The change of route caused heavy loss and disappointment to restaurants and other establishments which had let windows at enormous prices on the boulevards and caused corresponding rejoicing among the owners of similar houses on the line of the procession. The sums expended for garlands and the floral tributes for this funeral are [illegible]. Among the most expensive and admired of the floral tributes are two from the Americans [illegible] Mr. Morton and Gen. Ross.

In fitting the [illegible] catafalque yesterday some angry words took place between M. Paul de R[illegible], the poet, and M. Meyer, editor of the Gaulois, which led to a hostile message on the part of the latter in the evening.

LONDON LETTERS ON THE TOPICS OF THE DAY.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A London special has the following: Everybody agrees that France without Gambetta must have a different future at home and abroad. Clericalism rejoices that their most formidable enemy has gone, but it knows that its only chance to regain power is in the overthrow of the educational system which Gambetta founded. France to-day presents a scene of public mourning probably unequaled in the amplitude of martial honors to a civilian in its sombre magnificence and the innumerable [illegible] of sorrowing people.

Edinburgh papers say that the demonstration of greeting to Gladstone is expected to surpass all previous ones. Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone will be guests of Lord and Lady Rosebery at Dalmeny park, seven miles from Edinburgh. Tickets for the [illegible] and banquet for one thousand persons have been long ago sold.

Herbert Spencer republishes in the [illegible] in New York [illegible].

The mission of the English consul at Havana, Lionel Carden, to Mexico, is ostensibly to inquire into the possibility of developing British trade in your sister republic [illegible]. Sir Charles Dilke [illegible] market for English cotton [illegible]. The first aim of Carden will be of course to restore the regular diplomatic intercourse with Mexico which has been interrupted since 1867. It is argued that if France can forgive Mexico, England might to do so. In commercial circles the demand for such a revival of friendly relations with Mexico is strong and practically unanimous, English trade with that country having declined, whereas with every other part of the American continent it has increased largely.

The News in praising the views of Sir Charles Dilke maintains that Mexico is jealous of the influence which the United States are acquiring and is therefore anxious to encourage the investment of English capital as an enterprise against that American influence. Mexico, it says, now feels that at any moment the United States can pour troops into her capital. All this naturally enough serves to kindle interest in Mexican speculation and you will probably soon see all sorts of projects in the field for developing Mexican resources and for cutting out commercially the United States. So far as questions of trade are concerned Dilke seems determined to give a new reading to the doctrine of manifest destiny.

Disputed Possessions in Africa.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Papers here state the basis of arrangements between England and Portugal regarding their respective possessions on the west coast of Africa is the cession of [illegible] to England in return [illegible] the latter's supporting the claims of Portugal on the Congo river.

Crockery Store Burned.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—At eight o'clock last evening a raging fire was discovered in the extensive crockery and fancy ware establishment of Ovington Brothers in Brooklyn and [illegible] store and [illegible] completely destroyed. The fire originated just back of the office and was occasioned by a boy dropping a lamp as he was about to kindle a fire in the store. The [illegible] where some paper and straw were scattered about, and in a moment the flames spread over the floor and to the [illegible] partition. The boy was so frightened that he failed to give the alarm. The Church [illegible] adjoining caught fire several times and [illegible] much damaged by fire and water. [illegible] the streets, some of the [illegible] being only partially dressed. Ovington Brothers dealt in the finer grades of crockery, elegant bronzes, clocks and all descriptions of fancy wares. The loss is [illegible] but is not yet ascertained. The firm were fully insured, however.

Capture of Oakland's Defaulting Auditor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. [illegible].—After ardent search the detectives of this city were rewarded by finding [illegible] the defaulting auditor of Oakland. Since the news of his defalcation came to light he has [illegible] himself in [illegible] street, where he was received by [illegible] a young girl named [illegible]. A detective was [illegible] to watch the Oaklander [illegible] at the house where he was found [illegible] stated that a new lodger occupied room 45, but that he seldom left his room. A detective knocked on the door but received no answer and finally [illegible] to effect an entrance by means of a crowbar, whereupon Kay opened the door. He denied his identity, and was confronted by his photograph and the captain of the Oakland police with whom he was well acquainted. His paramour was also in the room and appeared considerably agitated at his apprehension. Search was made for some of the stolen funds, and $560 was found concealed [illegible]. Kay when taken to the Oakland jail said he had lost all the ill gotten money playing faro.

Lucky Baldwin in Danger.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Considerable apprehension is entertained of the condition of E. J. Baldwin. Several attempts have been made to find the bullet [illegible] without success. The nature of the wound will prevent any further search being made for at least two weeks. Owing to the fact that fragments of the shirt clung to the bullet and passed into the flesh inflammation has set in and it is feared that blood poisoning may eventually follow. Everything will be done to alleviate the suffering of the patient, which is said to be very acute. Since the shooting he has been exceedingly restless and unable to sleep except occasionally during the morning and afternoon.

Whisky did It.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—This morning a floating body was discovered in the bay about a mile from land and on being taken to the coroner's office was identified as Jas. [illegible] agent of the London, Liverpool & Globe Insurance Co. Several receipts for premiums, a watch and a small amount of money were found in his pockets together with a theater pass for Saturday night. He had been drinking heavily along the city front and it is supposed he fell from the wharf. He was quite well [illegible].

Stock Exchange to Close.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—Members of the Pacific stock and exchange board have decided to suspend business and to dispose of their property to the highest bidder. Several offers for the building on Montgomery street have been received, the highest bid thus far being $85,000. A meeting of stockholders will be held Monday, when the matter will be discussed and arrangements for sale of the property concluded.

Louise and Lorne.

SANTA [illegible], Jan. [illegible].—Princess Louise, Marquis of Lorne and suite left last night by the steamship Ancon for San Pedro, where a special train is waiting to carry them [illegible]. It is understood they will halt a day at San Gabriel, visit the orange groves and vineyards of Governor Stoneman and others and then resume their journey, stopping a day at Tucson, a day at Deming, also at Albuquerque, Kansas City, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Richmond, Va., and thence go to Charleston, where the princess will embark for Bermuda to remain until May. The marquis will go on to Washington for a few days, and thence to Quebec where he will open parliament about the 1st of February.

P. B. Johnson, of Walla Walla, on his return trip from Washington city, arrived in this city and will sail for Portland by the Oregon to-day. His son, who remained at Sacramento during his father's trip east, will return with him.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

An Escaped Bilk.

SEATTLE, Jan. 7.—A. [illegible] Garrison, who was about going into the hotel business here, was arrested last night on a requisition from the governor of New Mexico, charging him with grand larceny. It seems that Garrison went into the livery stable business at S[illegible] in October 1881, borrowed money and bought everything on credit. He ran along, staving [illegible] until May last, when he suddenly skipped [illegible] into Texas, there disposing of his horses, harness and vehicles. A requisition was made on the governor of Texas for him, but before he could be taken he disappeared, turning up here in November. The debt he left behind him at [illegible] amounts to about $4000 and it is said he [illegible] the people of Tombstone, A. T. [illegible]. He is also said to have [illegible] in Montana.

Garrison was placed in charge of a constable, through whose carelessness or negligence he made his escape during the night. It is supposed however he is in the neighborhood and diligent effort will be made to effect his recapture. He is evidently a bilk of the worst character and people here by this discovery have no doubt escaped operations on his part similar to those at [illegible] only on a larger scale.

MEXICO'S POLICY.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—[illegible] Maj. DeGress, vice president of the National [illegible] railway in which the general is interested. Maj. DeGress was [illegible] well informed regarding Mexican affairs and the proper way of managing Mexicans, and his death was a great loss to stockholders.

ANTI-AMERICAN PARTY.

It is stated by a person who has ample means of knowing that Gen. Grant received information by telegraph today that the Mexican authorities had taken possession of the National road on the ground that Grant and his associates had not complied with the conditions of the grant. He said the anti-American party is now in power and the statement is easily believed, as it is notorious that Romero's stay [illegible] the spoils and work diligently to secure the appointment of commissioners to negotiate a commercial treaty with this country. The National road is now [illegible] short of the point where it should have been under the terms of the concession. Work on it has been suspended for a month, which is still another violation of the concession and there are still other particulars in which the grantees had failed to comply with the terms of the Mexican government.

APPEAL TO THE GOVERNMENT.

He said General Grant visited Secretary Frelinghuysen and the president, to-day, in relation to this matter, desiring that the government should exert its influence to prevent Mexican authorities from retaining the road. It is understood he got no comfort. Secretary Frelinghuysen pointed out that this was merely a matter of contract between certain American citizens and the Mexican government and a failure to comply with the conditions of the concession were not defined, hence the United States government could not interfere.

There has been a good deal of curiosity to know why General Grant came here at this time. His visit has been connected with the Fitz-John Porter case and with the approaching meeting of the commissioners to negotiate a commercial treaty, but now a rumor [illegible] that knowing the danger there was the Mexican authorities would do what they have done, he came here to secure the intervention of the government to prevent such action.

PROTECTION, IF IT NECESSITATES WAR.

The commissioners to negotiate a treaty with Mexico, with General Grant as stockholder in the Mexican railroad, which the government of that country has just seized and which the government wants his government to recover for him, are in danger of becoming highly strained, and [illegible] say Mr. Blaine is quoted as having said, when he heard the news, that the Mexicans would have a nice time seizing the railroad had he been secretary of state, but Mr. Blaine is not in the habit of talking that way. No doubt, however, American investors in Mexico expect the government to take care of them, and this is the main reason why a large part of the Mexicans are extremely hostile to the introduction of American capital. Already a good deal of American money has gone down there, and if anything happens to it, the loss will try to get this country to protect them even to the extent of going to war.

Mr. Gould is supposed to be a man of some influence, and he has invested considerable money in what is called the sister republic.

Funeral of Major DeGress.

CITY OF MEXICO, Jan. 6.—The funeral of Major Francis DeGress was very largely attended. Many prominent men were present. The pall bearers included the minister of France, assistant secretary of war and chief of the Mexican navy. General [illegible] consul general, delivered the funeral address and Rev. John W. Butler officiated.

SPORTING NOTES.

A Brutal Fight.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—A most brutal fight occurred early this morning. For more than a month Patsy O'Brien has been anxious to meet Tom Burnes. O'Brien comes from Syracuse and has for years been known as a professional bruiser. Jones has boxed at a number of benefits and in December met O'Brien and defeated him. He wants to be known as a fighter. The two men agreed to meet and stakes were put up. The fight was to take place at 12 o'clock Friday night, and at 10 Burns, O'Brien, and a dozen friends embarked in carriages and drove to an empty house on Frankford avenue. John [illegible] who had charge of arrangements, met the party at the house and let them in. There were 43. The fighting room was a double parlor with sliding doors. Saw dust was sprinkled on the floor plentifully, and four coal oil lamps shed a sickly light on the pugilists and their friends. There was no rope. The fighters stripped and piled their clothes in the hall. Burns wore nothing but drawers, socks and shoes, while O'Brien appeared in the same clothing but without shoes. Burns weighed 162 pounds and O'Brien 150. Both men were in good condition. They faced each other at one o'clock this morning and for the first three rounds sparring was somewhat cowardly. Burns got the first knockdown in the second round, but received a split lip. In the third round they clinched and O'Brien, who was a more expert hitter, succeeded in drawing blood from his opponent's nose. Burns seemed to take his punishment very philosophically, and although knocked down twice in the fourth round he came to the scratch smiling for a fifth round.

Both men abandoned science and went at each other like a pair of bulldogs. O'Brien drew blood twice and Burns scored a knockdown. At the end of this round both men were bleeding severely and betting was even. Burns has the best of the sixth round, O'Brien being out of wind. Burns' eyes, however, were badly puffed and his nose was completely disorganized. O'Brien was comparatively fresh when he faced his opponent for the seventh round. After cautious sparring Burns attempted to drop, but in doing so O'Brien caught him under the chin and sent him sprawling on his back. O'Brien outfought his opponent at all points in the eighth round and at the termination the odds were 2 to 1 in his favor. Owing to good offices of his second, however, Burns rallied in the ninth round and succeeded in landing a terrific right hander under O'Brien's right ear. O'Brien went down as though he had been shot and remained unconscious so long that the crowd became frightened.

The referee was compelled to call time several times before O'Brien was able to stand. He staggered up at last, however, and Burns promptly favored him with a terrible blow between the eyes. After this Burns had everything his own way, and in two other rounds punished his opponent frightfully. Seeing that O'Brien could not win, MacLin threw up the sponge and Burnes was declared the victor. After blowing 55 minutes O'Brien had to be carried to a carriage at the door but recovered enough on the trip down town to express his willingness to fight Burns on a future occasion for $1,000.

Sullivan and Mace.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Davies, the sporting manager, says Sullivan thinks of going to San Francisco for a business trip, and then to England. I am expecting a letter from him every day. Mace is in San Francisco getting up an exhibition and Moore is with him. They will be here in about two weeks, and may stop in Chicago before going to New York to see Fox. There is to be a fight between Sullivan and Moore, and perhaps a glove contest between Mace and Sullivan in some city where the authorities are more liberal than in Chicago.

Daly Defeats Sexton.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A match game of billiards, carom cushions, 600 points, for $1000 a side was played last evening between Sexton, champion, and Maurice Daly at Tammany Hall. The game was won by Daly in the [illegible] inning by 81 points. Sexton's score was [illegible]. Time of the game four hours 45 minutes. Daly's highest scores were 44, 21 and 21. Sexton's highest scores were [illegible], 36, 26 and 25. Daly led from the beginning.

Freddie for the Stage.

Chicago Times.

Mr. Frederick Gebhardt ought to go on the stage. He couldn't, according to the critics, be a much worse actor than Mrs. Langtry, and as the latter's only successful American admirer, he would prove a great attraction in spite of his stage defects.

A WORD ABOUT JOURNALISM.

The Sunday Welcome of this [illegible] an article [illegible] the new paper [illegible] ment

There has long been a feeling among [illegible] dissatisfied with the [illegible] that if a new republican paper with [illegible] were started in this city, the old [illegible] wiped out of existence or at least comp[illegible] the bidding of the party leaders. The new paper has made its appearance, and we have [illegible] that a [illegible] republican paper to [illegible] ONIAN still as ate

It is not for us to reproduce the [illegible] article of which the above is an extract, and which shows in every line the unhappy [illegible] created by the new paper among those who would like to see it succeed, and who would be glad to commend it if they could. We print the brief extract only because THE OREGONIAN is referred to in a way which seems to call for a remark on its course as a public journal. It confesses that it has not been accustomed to do the bidding of party leaders. It has not done so because it has had a high view of its obligations to the public and of its own position and duty as a public journal than to allow itself to become an instrument [illegible] which professional and self seeking politicians who are fond of claiming the authority of party leadership, would register their decrees. It may be set down as certain there on that THE OREGONIAN will never do their bidding. So far it has found room for itself in this field as an independent journal, and it knows there is no room here or elsewhere for an organ except perhaps in the ranks of our journalism. It trusts also that since it will not obey political bosses it will not be compelled to accept the alternative indicated, that is, "be wiped out of existence." Time it has no wealth to boast of. It has not all the money it wants. But its proprietors are men of hard work and not without experience in the business. They may modestly express the opinion that the career and position of this paper afford an indication that it "supplies a want." But however this may be they know very well that to change its policy and make it an organ to do the bidding of politicians, would ruin it. No paper can be published on that basis, here or elsewhere and reach and hold a leading place. The history of all unsuccessful newspapers of the time show that independence of politicians and of those who want to be called "party leaders" is an indispensable precedent condition to obtainment of the confidence of the public, and therefore to journalistic honor and success.

At the same time, in a country like ours where politics engross at times a large share of attention, a journal must have political opinions, and the tendency of its utterances will therefore inevitably be in favor of one party or another. The political opinions of this journal have, it trusts, been sufficiently made known in national and state contests between the republican and democratic parties during many years. It has always upheld the cardinal principles and commended the general objects of the republican party, but it refuses to make itself the mouthpiece of politicians who "organize" and combine for their own advantage and benefit, presuming upon the devotion of republicans to party as a means to enable themselves to carry away its honors and rewards.

In every other part of the United States there is room for such journals, and THE OREGONIAN so far has found room here. It is a field too, that is continually widening with the growth of a better conception of the relations of the individual to his party, and of the higher duties of journalism. It is the newspaper of this class, everywhere, that secures public confidence, and so grows strong enough to distance all "organs" in obtainment and publication of the news in greatest fullness and variety;—and this, not the service of politicians and party managers is the main end and object of journalism.

POPULAR CREDULITY.

Because people are credulous false prophets abound. Few persons are free from superstitions. Education cannot eradicate inherited impressions. Men are born into the world with the inherited characteristics of all preceding experiences. An infant's mind is "not like a sheet of blank paper on which can be written what it is desirable to teach." On the child's mind are [illegible] which it may or may not [illegible] ingly as its "environment" [illegible] himself out [illegible] yet was [illegible] poise, which [illegible] rustling of a leaf. [illegible] rely upon the natural sea [illegible] ordinary affairs of life and [illegible] nomy of nature, who will not [illegible] ble with thirteen guests. When [illegible] with themselves they condemn this lack of trust in common sense, but still obey their feelings.

One Dr. Wiggins, who is a sort of Vennor as a weather prophet, but who, unlike Vennor predicts only as an alarmist, has published in many eastern journals a prophecy of a great storm to take place in March next. It has attracted no small attention. The most destructive storm that ever swept the seas is to take place between the 5th and 11th of that month, and it is to be felt all round the globe. The newspapers report that his prediction is having many believers among sailors and even among shipowners, and "not a few even among the hard-headed old salts at the New York maritime exchange have declined profitable engagements because they would be taken to sea during the period covered by Dr. Wiggins' prediction." Again, persons contemplating a voyage to Europe are disposed either to anticipate or skip over the fateful interval and although none of the steamship companies will condescend to change their regular days of departure, a decided falling off in passenger business is looked for." Gen. Hazen, chief of the signal service, who believes that nature is not a vacillating vixen, but is governed by uniform laws, very properly chides the emotional philosophy of prophets like Dr. Wiggins in these words: "Too severe rebuke cannot be inflicted upon those who attempt to deceive needlessly, alarm the people by publishing such statements. Their words are totally untrustworthy, and the people should be so informed by those who are familiar with the subjects upon which these prophets presume to speak. Such statements fill lunatic asylums and those who make them are enemies of society."

PROFESSIONAL REGULARITY.

Not long since the New York state medical association so far relaxed its code of ethics as to permit its members to consult with practitioners of the homeopathic school and otherwise acted to liberalize its rules. This is regarded as a rather remarkable change. Very probably it will pave the way to similar action in other states. The subject of "[illegible] in the Medical Profession" is ably discussed in the January number of the North American Review by Dr. David Hunt who opens with the assertion that when the regular physician refuses to consult with an irregular for the purpose of palliating suffering or saving life he does so at the command of the medical society which decides that such action is [illegible] ry to establish distinctions to the public [illegible] between regularity and irregularity. [illegible] ment advanced in the article is that the principle of medical [illegible] upon the relation of the physician to science that whatsoever [illegible] organized to protect [illegible] and humanity from injury [illegible] claims of science merely [illegible] science is incompatible with the support of any dogma, and as if the dogma were [illegible] making it an object of special care or reverence takes it out of democratic relations with other [illegible] and so injures it at the same time that it [illegible] professional influence [illegible] unduly [illegible]

On the question of [illegible] regularity the [illegible] that professional organization has nothing to do [illegible] have [illegible] right to interfere with the [illegible] in matters of individual [illegible] that the physician [illegible] subject only to the laws of trade and to its relations to [illegible] as a whole. When this cannot [illegible] that medical organization he should loyally support that body in performing [illegible] if the organization [illegible] in violation of a compact with the public as expressed by its charter or based on the principles involved [illegible] its proper functions or invades the individual rights of members he should oppose it as earnestly as he should support it in doing its duty. The complaint against the medical [illegible] forth by the writer is that instead of [illegible] principles they furnish a [illegible] meaningless system of laws embodying [illegible] fund amount of false sentiment opinion [illegible] in the [illegible] medical profession in America [illegible] established [illegible] tradition inherited from [illegible] ages. Misled by this tradition [illegible] profession regards the culture [illegible] university function and [illegible] daily duty. Without the quality of [illegible] practice the doctor becomes the slave of [illegible] conventionalities of culture and fashion.

On the relations of the physician to quackery, as set forth in the code, the writer is plain and outspoken. He quotes the rule which forbids a physician to consult with an irregular practitioner and says: "We claim to have discovered in the dogma [illegible] relation to science [illegible] sentiment [illegible] ties concerning our relations to trade. A quality worse than either is shown in this hypocritical assumption that regularity is a virtue opposed to quackery as a vice—that a line can be drawn between regularity and quackery which will not divide the regulars against themselves."

"THE ETERNAL FITNESS."

A contract has been let, in accordance with a joint resolution adopted by both houses of congress authorizing the erection of a bronze statue of Chief Justice Marshall in the capitol grounds at Washington, to William W Story, the eminent sculptor and poet, to perform this lasting tribute of a grateful people to the memory of one of their greatest jurists. The statue is to be of life size representing the great lawyer in his robes of office, seated in a curule chair ornamented with emblematic designs. It will be cast in the city of Munich under the immediate supervision of Mr Story himself and then be shipped to America to be placed in the capitol yards at Washington.

John Marshall, third chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, was a native of Virginia, born in Fauquier county in 1755, and died at Philadelphia at the advanced age of eighty years. He was a lieutenant in the Continental army during the revolution and was promoted to a captaincy a few days prior to the surrender of Cornwallis. His first appearance as a statesman was at a public meeting held in Richmond in 1795 on which occasion as one of the speakers attacked the [illegible] nature of President Washington for having [illegible] rected Mr. Jay to negotiate the treaty of that year with Great Britain. His [illegible] argument showing how both the president and Mr Jay had acted well within the scope and meaning of the constitution won him the applause of the friends of the administration, and at the same time gave him the confidence of the people. From that hour he walked the road to fame.

President Washington offered the ambitious young lawyer the position of attorney general in his cabinet, but Marshall looked upon this as a reward of a partisan service and declined it in a letter that was both graceful and eloquent. This won for him new admirers and his already lucrative practice was soon doubled. In 1801 he was appointed to the chief justiceship of the supreme court by President Adams. The office sought the man and as he was wealthy and led a very active life, he accepted the position to the surprise of all save his closest friends. He filled it to the undying fame of himself and the endless glory of the republic literally dying in harness. Prior to his appointment, however, he was sent as an envoy plenipotentiary to France, and while his negotiations were un[illegible] Mrs. [illegible] upon the admiration of the [illegible] who declared that the [illegible] American independence was [illegible] when out of such rude [illegible] a primitive civilization could grow [illegible] mature mind as that of Marshall.

William Wetmore Story, the sculptor selected to aid in commemorating the private virtues and public services of the great chief justice is the son of the eminent Massachusetts lawyer who sat upon the bench with the great Marshall, and labored with him so faithfully in the cause of justice and human rights. While inheriting some of his father's love for the law the younger Story lacked his parent's devotion to the grandest of all the learned professions and abandoned it for literary pursuits. To the reading public he is best known as the author of "Cleopatra," and also of "Fiammetta" [illegible] A volume of his poems was published in Boston in 1847 and [illegible] appeared his biography of [illegible]

[illegible] Story [illegible] of the finest works [illegible] years [illegible] statue of his father in the cemetery at Mount Auburn near Boston [illegible] Beethoven is pronounced one of the finest extant likenesses of that great composer. Of late years Mr Story who is now 64 years of age has resided in Rome, drinking in the inspirations of art that fill the holy city. That he will do full justice to the great subject he has now under way there need be no fear, and in the selection of the son of Story to commemorate the [illegible] Marshall in imperishable bronze, the eternal fitness of things is once [illegible] made manifest.

A double postal card has just gone into use in Canada which bids fair to be very popular, particularly with business men. The card is so arranged as to afford the original sender of the card the means of sending, with his communication a blank reply card stamped and ready to be dispatched. The reply or double cards will cost two cents each, taking, as it does, the place of two single cards. The issue of double cards for places within the dominion is soon to be followed up by an issue of reply cards to be used in correspondence with the United Kingdom.

The Pall Mall Gazette says there are English newspapers which, whatever their want of [illegible] in taste or discretion do diligently [illegible] their public functions [illegible] conduct on no material respect less [illegible] than that which a gentleman sets [illegible] himself [illegible] before himself in the conduct of private life. It would not be hard to [illegible] number of such papers both in England and America.

RAILWAY RACKET.

Northern Pacific Land Grant—San Francisco to New Orleans—Southern Pacific Stock—Minor Notes.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Last June a bare majority [illegible] the grant [illegible] Northern Pacific railroad [illegible] United States did [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

The facts are a majority of the republican committee [illegible] the opinion that the United States has not the right to declare forfeited [illegible] upon which they were granted [illegible] members [illegible] not fully committed [illegible] view and [illegible] Payson, Culberson, Townsend and Knott are anxious to have the whole question reviewed so as to secure if possible some definite action by the committee and house before the close of this session. To this end Knott asked the committee to take up his resolution at once, [illegible] Reed objected to re-opening the question and will doubtless do what he can to prevent Knott's resolution from being reported and placed on the calendar but the tone of discussion in the committee was encouraging to its advocates and the matter will be pressed upon the committee at the next opportunity. Townsend and Payson are pleased with the prospects and other members of the committee think the house would be inclined to adopt resolutions of forfeiture if it could be gotten out of the committee.

San Francisco to New Orleans in Five Days.

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 7.—The cold damp weather has delayed the concerting of the Sunset and Southern Pacific lines. The bridge was completed to-day over Dry canyon (where the false work fell some time since causing the death of eleven men) and the train passed over the chasm. The ends of the tracks are not over two hundred yards apart and only the iron bridge, which is now under construction, separates them. Connection can it be made before the 15th inst. If the present bad weather continues, Regular trains will be put on between San Francisco and New Orleans about Feb. 1st the schedule and time tables being now in the hands of the printers. Two extra trains propose leaving San Francisco and New Orleans daily and making the through trip in five days.

Railroad Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. [illegible]—A Kiernan's News dispatch to [illegible] states the Canadian Pacific Railroad [illegible] in London, and that a syndicate had been formed there to take [illegible] altogether correct. Most [illegible] money has been [illegible] the United States [illegible] Canada from the sale of lands and from government [illegible] The stock will be [illegible] New York exchange at an early date, to be formally [illegible] in this country.

POLITICAL POINTS.

Reform and Discontent—Sensational Slanders Refuted—Civil Service Bill.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

Senatorial Slanders Refuted.

[illegible] The campaign of slanders in the senatorial contest took a new turn last night. A package of affidavits where are from Colorado purporting the recent attacks on Senator Windom [illegible] One affidavit, by Wm Wolff, of Durango, Col., shows that he was approached at the instance, as was asserted of Geo. Wilkinson, of Winona, with a proposition to blackmail Windom out of $1000 to $20,000. M. J. Mc. Closk, Windom's agent in Durango, testifies that if Windom's property there was only about $1000 instead of the fabulous amounts claimed and that [illegible] Dickey superintendent of the Pemperal mine [illegible] that Wilkinson told him he was going to make it hot for Windom and bust him for senator if it [illegible] $1000.

In Favor of the Civil Service Bill.

NEW YORK, Jan. [illegible]—Ex Vice President Wheeler says he favors the civil service bill and always has. It is not radical enough, but it has got a beginning. Regarding the future he believed firmly the republican party will be perpetuated under a new name but he would not undertake to predict what it would do in 1884. He says Governor Cleveland is a man of integrity and he wished him well. He was playing a dual role and would be a marvelous man if he succeeded.

The remains were identified as those of John P. Savage, for some time a resident of this city. Examination of the body showed no bruises that could have produced death, and Dr. W. H. Saylor testified that in his opinion the deceased died from natural causes.

The jury then returned a verdict in accordance with the testimony of Dr. Saylor.

Savage was a barber and for some time had been in the employ of R. Gumbert, who keeps a shop on the corner of First and Yamhill streets. He has been addicted to drinking and the night before his death was seen intoxicated upon the street. It is thought he craved an early morning drink and going to get it fell dead as he reached the saloon door.

Subjects Treated from Different Religious Standpoints—The Essence of Several Sermons Compiled for our Readers.

Services [illegible] well at [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] heaven [illegible] The bottom has dropped out of hell and people who are on the way to heaven expect to take their sins with them. The drunkard dies and the preacher says he is asleep in Jesus. Yesterday he was asleep [illegible] a common phrase and no one any longer believes in an obituary notice. It is not right. "As the tree falleth so shall it lie." Conduct creates character. What we do we become.

Another requisite is self respect and self esteem. Despite the spirit of meanness be sure it mars the spirit of God in your heart. Young men take a deep interest in your country's welfare but never do or say a mean or questionable thing for any party or any candidate and in this way elect for life a purity in your own bosoms.

Next comes earnestness, which implies seriousness. Read the lives of strong characters. The nearer their life comes to your own the deeper will be the impression. Commune with the great, the strong, the good. Make their virtues your virtues, and in this way become worthy to tread in the footsteps of our Lord Jesus Christ.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Rev. J. A. Gray chose for his sermon yesterday morning the subject "Our Dreams of Life," taken from the following text:

Gen. [illegible] "And he dreamed yet another dream and told it to his brethren, and said, Behold I have dreamed a dream more and behold the sun and the moon and the eleven stars made obeisance to me."

He said: The literature of dreams is voluminous. In the early ages they were deemed of great importance. The Egyptians and Babylonians supported a learned profession of men who gave themselves wholly to the study and interpretation of dreams. The Chinese sages teach that God speaks in dreams. In Homer dreams came from Jove. The Greeks and Romans believed them the utterances of the will of the gods. The Indians believe all dreams of vast importance and [illegible] and the Moslems teach that good dreams come from God, and bad ones from the devil.

Much is made of them in the Bible; warnings were uttered [illegible] famine was predicted in Egypt, the destruction of empires foretold, and right direction [illegible] safely. Revelations and [illegible] forts were [illegible] Jacob was lifted [illegible] inspiration [illegible] the ladder and angels. We [illegible] to think them of very little value. As civilization advances, men conform [illegible] the laws of health we have fewer of them. We do not need them as revelations of the Divine will [illegible] has spoken fully in His word, and yet there has never been such an age of dreams and dreamers as this, not the night when deep sleep falleth upon man, but waking fancies and images. The Christian dispensation was prophesied as one of dreams [illegible] young men shall see visions and your old men shall dream dreams. We call them ideals, our brains are [illegible] with all of these dreams [illegible] history of the text is the first instance of a man telling [illegible] aspirations of the ideal. [illegible] he wanted to outstrip his eleven brothers, and then his father and mother. It was unpardonable folly then for a boy to hope to be better than his father [illegible] parents [illegible] him and [illegible] [illegible] would not [illegible] [illegible] Christian [illegible] [illegible] children to [illegible] [illegible] are results of [illegible] ideals formed first in the mind and afterward wrought out.

We have been running after ideals and [illegible] slowly [illegible] They inspire us [illegible] [illegible] better [illegible] ought to die. They save us from stagnation. [illegible] We are a restless people. We want to [illegible] call [illegible] lines of travel, we want [illegible] we are full of visions and dreams, we are trying to work out. And yet, all that has been achieved is inconsiderable beside the visions that have lived. Almost every history has its dream of failure. No one accomplishes what he undertakes. We live and die far short of what we think to do. We feel that life is a chase after impalpable phantoms and yet these visions bore us on. They unfold deeper purposes in life than we thought of. God impelled the Israelites out of Egypt with dreams of a land of milk and honey, and they wandered in a sandy desert. They never got into Canaan, but they had wondrous discipline in the wilderness, and when their children did reach the promised land it was no such country as they thought, but what characters, histories, laws, maxims, moralities they wrought out in their fruitless chase. Your boy at school begins to look wan and pale, his flesh is flabby and his strength fails. You do not present him with a treatise on physical culture; you get a velocipede, a pair of skates. You get him to play and he has a good time. You do not care for his little games but you rejoice to see vigor and health on his cheeks. Your young man starts out to obtain provision for ease and rest in declining years. With foresight and patient toil he's [illegible] wealth and finds that he has something better than rest—love of activity. He is full of life, of hope. He has developed honesty, sagacity, self control. He sought the earthly Canaan, and it moved away into mist, and lo, the towers of the new Jerusalem sparkle in the sun. The enduring elements of character are won. So we are marched about seeking our earthly promises and die without them. Dreams of all good things sensible and impossible and as the true wealth was worth of life consumed grasp and keep them. Our ideals, if they run upon the line of virtue and christianity, shall lead into brighter and better realization than any vision has portrayed to us. Our brightest ideals of character will be realized in Christ and our future shine more and more unto the perfect day.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Rev. A. L. Lindsley, D. D., chose for his subject [illegible] taking the following text:

1 Tim. ii. 5, 6: "For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, who gave himself a ransom for all."

[illegible] This text is [illegible] by the [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] a plan applied to earth and air and [illegible] created things near and far and the predominant purpose runs through all history. There is one God and therefore there is one supreme duty, which is [illegible] written His love [illegible] our hearts. His law upon [illegible] who has shed His truth upon our reason, His light upon our path.

All this was true [illegible] when He created the [illegible] in His image. There was nothing but happiness before them [illegible] evil crossed their path [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] CHURCH.

At the [illegible] the pastor, Rev. [illegible] W. Izer, occupied the pulpit. He announced as his text 1 Cor. [illegible] "Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God." Subject—Christ in Philosophy and science.

He said: The claim of conflict between philosophy and religion, between science and Revelation [illegible] [illegible] these philosophers and scientists who reject Christianity because its life is made to rest on supernatural and superhuman elements. With them man is an evolution, the soul is the result of organism, and miracles are inconsistent with the fixedness of the laws of nature. Hence Christianity is charged with being unscientific and unfriendly to scientific truths and researches. This charge is without foundation. In fact Christianity concedes the legitimacy of philosophic inquiry and scientific investigation. It expressly commands "add to your virtue knowledge." But the realm of inquiry is infinite, the field of investigation is boundless. Man's intellect is finite. Human reason is limited, hence Christianity insists that the inquiries of philosophy and the investigations of science must have a limit. It is at this point that the issue is made with Christianity, and the seeming conflict between religion and science of which we hear so much arises. Christianity is declared to be unphilosophical and unscientific, not because it denies the right of inquiry, for it prompts to this and commands it, but because it bounds the field of human inquiry by the limits of human reason. Reason it allows is competent for the discovery and apprehension of manifold and great truths, but at the same time it claims that reason is incompetent to apprehend or to discover manifold other and greater truths. Reason must be supplemented by revelation. Revelation is not a contradiction [illegible] rather the broadening out of the finite into the infinite. Revelation beginning [illegible] at the limit of reason, the outmost verge of finite thought [illegible] in the same direction and moves on [illegible] into the direct line of infinity. [illegible] can be no conflict between Christianity and sound philosophy, no issue between revelation and true science.

Miracles, the great stumbling block to the philosopher and scientist, imply no abrogation of any law [illegible] of any power recognized and understood by us in nature and [illegible] but simply the bringing in and operating of a superior law and a higher power [illegible] [illegible] and by the same agent [illegible] [illegible] the other [illegible] [illegible] and really under law and applied by Christ. [illegible] or the laws of nature observed and understood by the finite mind while supplemented [illegible] by Christ in the performance of what we call miracles. We proceed to our limit in the application of law and we call our operations natural; [illegible] [illegible] further all [illegible] conditions [illegible] supernatural and superhuman and is allied by us miraculous. But why should it be considered incredible that there are supernatural laws and possibilities [illegible] [illegible] combinations and experiments [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] These [illegible] we call miracles. Be it be, but let it be [illegible] that they imply [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] higher law or the higher grade [illegible] superior plane [illegible] When science and philosophy by [illegible] the limits of the finite to see and to solve [illegible] [illegible] methods and foresee [illegible] [illegible] infinity [illegible] difference. Ruling [illegible] [illegible] difference is not in nature but in degree.

Christ did not come to teach science nor is Christianity a system of philosophy, yet Christ was always [illegible] in all His references a [illegible]. No naturalist has ever found Christ at fault or in error respecting nature. He showed himself to be at the very head of the school [illegible] crown [illegible] naturalists for all time and in all fields. The principles of Christianity are basal to all true philosophy while its genius and spirit is an inspiration to all and every honest quest of truth.

The above with kindred propositions relevant to the speaker's theme were discussed and illustrated, showing the place which Christ holds in philosophy and science, and the points of reconciliation between Christianity and the thought of the age. This meagre outline gives a very imperfect idea of the discourse. The theme was treated elaborately and by varied argument and metaphor set forth the central idea—Christianity in accord and not a conflict with philosophy and science and placed Christ in the forefront of the philosophers and scientists of all the ages.

THAT "CRUELTY."

Capt. Sewell's Version of Alleged Maltreatment of Sailors on the El Capitan.

Capt. Sewell, of the American ship El Capitan, has arrived from Astoria, and was asked by an [illegible] reporter [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] the charges of cruelty [illegible] published a few days since. He said [illegible] the charges of assault and battery [illegible] [illegible] He assaulted [illegible] the same offense [illegible] a hundred [illegible] Thomas was [illegible] He was [illegible] the work [illegible] and Capt. Sewell [illegible] him that he was asking [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] Harris [illegible] [illegible] that he did [illegible] orders from [illegible] Capt. Sewell [illegible] Capt. Sewell returned [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] he said [illegible] to the [illegible] first the captain [illegible] and struck [illegible] the first mate [illegible] officer [illegible] the [illegible] the ship [illegible] Capt. [illegible] [illegible] his orders. [illegible] the court [illegible] assault he will cheerfully pay the penalty.

Concerning the alleged cruel [illegible] Capt. Sewell says he [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the third man [illegible] the remaining two were injured by falling [illegible] All received the best treatment, and did not hesitate to say so when they landed. As it happened, [illegible] the captain nor either of the mates were aloft when the men fell and the customary story of being pushed from the yard would not hold water else that too might have been told. Of the four men lost during the voyage one fell overboard from the [illegible] royal yard in a squall off Rio Janeiro, a second died suddenly off Cape Horn, a third died from incurable disease, and the fourth fell from the fore upper topsail yard to the deck but broke no bones. He remained in his bunk only five days, when he appeared of his own accord on deck and went to work. He continued at duty four weeks, when he again took to bed and died in two weeks. The second mate [illegible] illness until the night before his death, when he complained only of being cold. Next morning the captain visited him in his bunk and asked whether something to eat would not warm him. He answered in the affirmative, and, as the sailors said, "was told to go to the galley and get it." This much of their story is true. Beyond that, however, Capt. Sewell pronounces every word false. His character as an honest, outspoken man gives weight to this denial.

DEDICATION.

The chapel of the Mount Zion Congregational church was dedicated yesterday afternoon. The building was filled with an interested and attentive assembly. Representatives of the First and the Plymouth Congregational churches of this city and the Congregational church at Hillsboro were present and took part in the services. The opening anthem and various hymns were sung with spirit by the choir and congregation led by T. C. Humphrey. Rev. E. Rogers the pastor, offered a prayer of invocation. Responsive reading 84th Psalm, was led by Rev. T. [illegible], after which Rev. Geo. H. Atkinson read [illegible] This was followed with prayer by Rev. T. E. [illegible] Dr. Atkinson then preached an interesting and [illegible] [illegible] sermon from the 132nd Psalm.

The financial statement read by W. L. Gaston showed the cost of the edifice and furnishings $[illegible] debt [illegible]. There was immediately collected and [illegible] by the congregation $[illegible] leaving the [illegible] free of debt. Rev. E. Rogers, who has worked hard and given much time and money for this enterprise, heartily thanked the donors in the [illegible] and in Portland and Beaverton and the American Congregational Union for their sympathies and their gifts and all present for their sympathy and aid on the present occasion. A fervent prayer of dedication was offered by Rev. [illegible] of Plymouth Congregational, North Portland. Nine members had been accepted by vote of the church, four by profession and five by letter. Six being present were received and one baptized. Three were absent on account of sickness. The communion services were conducted by Rev. [illegible] of Hillsboro and Rev. G. H. Atkinson. This interesting series of services was closed by singing "Coronation," followed by the benediction.

WASHINGTON.

LIEUT. CHIPP'S ARCTIC PARTY FOUND

Louisiana Committee to Urge on Government the Necessity of More Protection for Sugar.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The following note has been addressed by the secretary of state to the Chinese minister in the subject of Chinese travelers in the United States:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Jan. [illegible], 1883.

Mr. Chong Tsao Ju & Co., Sir: On the [illegible] of June the charge de affairs, ad interim, of your legation, Mr. Tsu Chan Pang, wrote to me regarding the question arising under the act of May 6th, 1882, relative to the transit across the territory of the United States of Chinese laborers proceeding to or returning from Cuba and other foreign countries. I am happy to inform you that this government has reached the conclusion that the transit through the United States of Chinese subjects proceeding to or from their country is permissible under the act in question with certain precautions against abuses. An opinion which I have received from the attorney general sets forth the grounds on which this conclusion is reached, which briefly recapitulated are as follows.

The preamble to the act thereof reads:

WHEREAS, In the opinion of the government of the United States the coming of Chinese laborers to this country endangers the good order of certain localities in the territory thereof, and it is thereupon enacted that the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States be suspended, and during such suspension it shall not be lawful for any Chinese laborer to come, or having come to remain, within the United States.

The act is based upon the treaty of the 17th of November, 1880, the provisions whereof it is designed to execute. In that treaty it is premised that a modification of the existing treaty has become necessary in consequence of the increasing immigration of Chinese laborers and the embarrassments caused by such immigration, and thereupon the government of China agrees that whenever in the opinion of this government injurious effects are threatened or caused by the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States, or their residence therein, such coming or residence may be regulated, limited or suspended, but may not be absolutely prohibited.

The treaty adds that the limitation or suspension shall be reasonable and shall apply only to Chinese who may go to the United States as laborers, other classes not being included in the limitation. Legislation taken in regard to Chinese laborers will be of such character only as is necessary to enforce the regulations of limitation or suspension of immigration, and immigrants shall not be subject to personal maltreatment. In the view of the attorney general, the act of the 6th of May, 1882, being intended to carry into effect the stipulations of the treaty, is to be construed in the light thereof, and has reference only to the Chinese who come here to stay as laborers. It is only with immigrants, and with those who come as laborers, that the treaty and the statute deals.

Looking therefore at the mischief and the remedy, and the treaty and the act taken together, this government, adopting the conclusion of the attorney general, does not think that a Chinese laborer coming to this country merely to pass through it can be considered as within the prohibition of the law, he being neither an immigrant nor coming here as a laborer.

With regard to the necessity of Chinese laborers in transit being provided with evidence that they are not Chinese coming here as immigrants or as laborers, the attorney general says: As the prohibition of the act applies to Chinese laborers coming into the country to stay as laborers, and as the regulations touching certificates of identification prescribed by the fourth and sixth sections, are auxiliary to that end and intended to prevent frauds upon the act, and therefore applicable only to Chinese coming here for permanent or temporary residence, I am of opinion that Chinese passing through this country to other countries are not required, before crossing our borders, to produce the certified certificates of identification, provided they competently prove, in some other manner, that they are mere transient passengers.

Of course the certificate would dispense with other proof. The character of such proof may very properly be regulated by the secretary of the treasury. I have brought the matter in this shape to the attention of the secretary of the treasury and have requested that he will frame such regulations as may be necessary to permit the transit of Chinese laborers. As soon as the action of my colleague shall be known to me I will communicate to you. Accept, sir, a renewed assurance of my high consideration.

FREDERICK T. FRELINGHUYSEN.

Want Protection.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—A committee composed of three of Louisiana's largest and richest sugar planters is here to urge a higher rate of duty on low grade sugars than the report of the tariff committee provides, and a very much higher rate than either the finance committee of the senate or the ways and means committee of the house propose to put in their respective tariff bills. They spent all day at the capital discussing the sugar question with members of the house and senators from different sections of the country. They found little encouragement among democrats or republicans. They found the sentiment to be that there must be a very considerable reduction of the tariff on sugar. In vain they pointed out that the reduction proposed by the senate finance committee would ruin the planting interest of Louisiana. They were told that sugar was not a luxury, but one of the necessaries of life, and that the aim was to take the burden off the shoulders of the poor rather than the rich.

There was one thing the sugar planters' committee did find out, and that was that if they could swap the delegation of their states they could get about what they wanted, which is a quarter of a cent per pound on low grade sugar more than the report of the tariff commission gives them. The wool, cotton and iron men and various other interests want more protection than they are likely to get, and all these interests can largely control delegations of states in which they are located. The members and senators representing these interests are willing to help Louisiana members secure a higher rate of duty on sugar, provided Louisiana members help them. How will the Louisiana members, who are all democrats but two, enter into a combination of this kind to protect sugar? The two republicans will, because they believe in the protection of sugar and all other interests. The Louisiana delegation and sugar planters' committee had a conference at the [illegible] house to-night, and the planters' committee read the delegation a lecture and did some talking to them, but they did not get them in a swapping humor. It is safe to conclude that among the articles on which the duty will be largely reduced in the tariff bill is placed in sugar. The planters' committee is composed of ex-Gov. Warmoth, John Dymond and Edward J. Gay.

Arctic Explorers' Remains Discovered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—It is understood that the state department at Washington possess documents showing beyond a doubt that the persons found in Siberia [illegible] expedition, members of Lieut. Chipp and party. The members of the party were all dead, and it is said papers found upon their persons gave details of their terrible sufferings up to the last occasion when they were able to record them.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The Sun has the following from Boston: A letter has been received here from a man in Pittsfield, who is said to be perfectly trustworthy, transmitting a letter from an American in Siberia to a friend in that city.

The Siberian letter is signed David L. West. He says he married in Paris a Russian lady whose brother was convicted on charges of Nihilism, and that he, West, obtained a pardon and went after his brother-in-law. In Siberia, while searching for him, he became lost and discovered a snow hut in which was one man dead and another who soon died. He buried them, and on searching the hut found an English bible with the name of "A Kuenne" in it. He also found records of the deaths of Sharvell, Bass, Peter, and a man whose name began with W. The names of Walter Sharvell, Henry D. Warren, and Peter E. Johnson appear in President Arthur's message as among the missing boat's crew of Lieut. Chipp's party. West also says that he discovered the [illegible] boat, an axe, a rifle, and some other relics of Chipp's crew. The letter is to be sent to Senator Dawes.

English Ports Closed to American Cattle.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The cattle commission, in discussing the question of admission of American store cattle to England, in its report concludes: It is a vain hope that England will remove the restrictions so long as we fail to show that the last vestige of infection has been wiped out from our land, and nothing short of the undeniable death of this disease in the United States will reopen the British market to our live cattle, and save us those millions we now prodigally, and, we might say, insanely throw away.

The report estimates a yearly loss, from the lung plague, to the United States, at from $200,000 to 300,000, and a prospective loss of $6,000,000. The capital represented by present yearly losses, at five per cent., would be from $40,000,000 to $60,000,000, and that, represented by prospective losses, at the same rate, would be $1,300,000,000. The governing principle in all these recommendations is, that the federal government shall forbid the movement of store cattle out of any infected state or district, except after a quarantine, such as is now imposed on cattle imported from an infected foreign country. The report recommends that the secretary of the treasury be empowered to order the instant destruction of all cattle or other animals which, in quarantine, give evidence of dangerous contagious disease.

Title to California Lands in Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—In the case of Lawrence McCain vs. the Texas and Pacific railroad company, involving a title to lands in California, Commissioner McFarland holds that when lands within the limits of railroad land grants are covered by filings of records it shall be regarded as prima facie evidence of the exception of the tract from the railroad grant. An applicant making a filing or entry on a tract, subsequent to the date of the railroad grant, is not required to give notice of his action to the company, but his filings or entry will be placed on record subject to future compliance with the law.

John T. Gamble of California through an attorney some time ago made a request to the president to remove Michael Burke from a section of land covered by Gamble's homestead entry. The application was based upon an old law passed in 1807, authorizing the president to remove intruders on public lands. The commissioner of the land office, to whom the question was referred, held that the old law was still in force, but in a letter to the attorney general the secretary of the interior refuses to concur in that opinion. He holds that the law was superseded by subsequent legislation; that punishment of trespassers on public land has always been effected by a resort to judicial tribunals.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 7.—A Washington special says: Representative Page, in answer to a direct inquiry whether the house commerce committee would in the face of the report of Secretary Lincoln undertake to put through a river and harbor bill this year, said they most assuredly would, that the committee intended to frame a reply to the secretary's report, which would show that he had made some very wild statements. He said that among the list of harbors the secretary said would not be benefited by the expenditure of money appropriated, was Plymouth harbor, Mass., and yet the president had sent to congress a special recommendation for this appropriation. He said it would be news to the Pacific coast that the Sacramento river is not a navigable stream, yet its waters carried ocean vessels for hundreds of miles and had a large commerce. Page said that the bill would be drawn and passed making appropriations for all rivers and harbors where it appeared that appropriations heretofore made would be exhausted by next July, notwithstanding the president's recommendation.

The Hawaiian Treaty.

The foreign affairs committee of the house has postponed for a week the vote on the question of recommending abrogation of the Hawaiian treaty, which was to have been taken up yesterday. The delay is owing partly to the death of the Hawaiian minister here and the desire of the committee to accede to a request made by his son that a vote be not taken for a few days, and partly to the failure of the secretary of state and secretary of the treasury to send to the committee their opinions as to the policy of the proposed abrogation of the treaty. Chairman Williams, of the committee, says he expects letters from the secretary will reach the committee next week and that a vote will be then had on the question. Senator Morrill has introduced in the senate a resolution recommending abrogation of the treaty, which he wished referred to the finance committee, of which he is chairman. Some senators claimed that proper reference should be to the foreign affairs committee and the question is still undecided.

Star Route Bids.

J. C. Slater, D. W. Rhodes and A. H. Minck are appointed by the postmaster general as a committee to open bids for performance of star route service. The letting will embrace routes in Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Mississippi, and a number of miscellaneous routes. About [illegible] proposals were received.

A New Signal Service Bill.

The signal service bill introduced in the house by Lodge provides that there shall be one chief signal officer of the army of the rank of colonel, with an officer of the rank of major, whose duties shall be assistant of the rank of major, whose duties shall relate solely to military signalling, and provides that lieutenants of the signal service shall be assigned to regiments of the line.

Protection for Borax.

The ways and means committee have struck from the tariff bill borax and boracic acid. Representatives of the borax producers of the Pacific coast, where deposits have been discovered, but need protection at the rate of 10 cents per pound, which is duly recommended.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NASHVILLE, Jan. 7.—At the last extra session of the legislature a bill was introduced to increase the bond of the state treasurer, but this bill was stolen from the desk of the clerk of the senate on the night before the bill was to come up for final passage, on the day before the time fixed for final adjournment of the legislature.

The amount of deficit in the treasury cannot be accurately ascertained until a thorough investigation is had. One of the bondsmen, who has been examined, says the accounts show thus far a deficit of $380,000. The same bondsman says the treasurer's bonds and receipt at one of the banks shows a discrepancy of over $80,000. Just before Christmas he said he drew out of the bank of Pulaski $5000. The state funds are distributed in various banks at Nashville, Knoxville and Memphis.

The missing funds are supposed to have been lost in speculation or loaned to personal friends engaged in speculation in bonds and stocks. Treasurer Polk left Nashville Wednesday, and was last heard of in Milan, from which point he wrote back that he would return Saturday. His family know his whereabouts.

Treasurer Polk is 55 years old, a graduate of West Point, and served four years on the frontier. He was captain of an artillery company in the confederate army in Cheatham division, and lost a leg at the battle of Shiloh. He afterwards served on the staff of Gen. Leonidas Polk, to whom he is related. After the war he lived on a farm near Bolivar, Tenn., until six years ago. He was a nephew of the late President Polk. He has a large family, and he occupied a high social position in the city and state.

Governor Hawkins, in reply to the inquiry if steps would be taken for the apprehension of the absconding treasurer, said no application had been made for his apprehension and therefore his action depends upon the character of the application when made.

The books in the treasurer's office are in good condition; the only question is the amount of deficit, which can be ascertained in to-morrow's investigation in a comparatively short time.

EXAMINATION TO BE MADE.

The house has adopted resolutions for a full, complete and searching examination of the affairs of the state treasurer. It is proven that the defalcation began five years ago, that one check drawn by the treasurer for $37,000 went to pay for his interest in a silver mine in Mexico, and it is believed he also paid for another interest of a partner. It is known that $175,000 of public funds belonging to the treasurer's account are deposited in two Nashville banks, and it is hoped that other sums may be in other banks. Polk was a large speculator.

Representative Milliken, of the investigation committee, says the deficit in the treasurer's account is over $400,000, including $60,000 in United States bonds which are missing. Polk began stealing five years ago and increased it rapidly. After the passage of the 1034 funding bill there were many speculations in New York. Major O'Connor, killed in Knoxville last November, owes Polk $50,000. Polk paid out the state money for exchange on San Francisco with which to pay for his silver mine in Mexico. Checks were found in the safe with no evidence that they had passed off. The comptroller books show the Mechanic's bank, of Knoxville, owes the state $25,000, but the bank claims to have paid the money to O'Connor after that. The missing U. S. bonds were 7-30s. Polk was interested with O'Connor in the Gadsden Ore bank, but the stock was in O'Connor's name, although $10,000 of it was paid for out of the state treasury. Thousands of dollars in checks show they were drawn by M. T. Polk, treasurer and payable to M. T. Polk, but not countersigned by the comptroller.

THE DEFALCATION AFFECTS WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—There is much stir in Wall street over Tennessee's treasurer's defalcations. It is not discovered that he speculated in Wall street much beyond that he bought heavily of Tennessee bonds and persuaded his friends to do the same. He was positive the debt would be paid and bought as high as 56, selling most of the bonds at 50 or below.

POLK ARRESTED.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan 7.—A San Antonio special reports the arrest there of treasurer Polk, of Tennessee.

Gone to Join Tennessee's Defaulter.

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 7.—Wm. H. Grover and Thos. Scull, employes of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, are missing. The former was under bonds for embezzling the funds of the Prudential Life Insurance Company and for forgery.

Diamond Thief Discovered.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—George Seymour, alias Stiles, colored, entered a pawn office and offered as a pledge for $75 a breastpin containing thirty-five diamonds and valued at $3000. Being promptly arrested he was searched and a memorandum found on him showing he had pawned a very valuable diamond at another place. While in the prisoner's dock he was recognized as a former waiter at the West End hotel, at Long Branch, where last summer Mrs. Carl, of Pittsburg, was robbed of about $30,000 worth of diamonds.

Abduction.

ST. ALBANS, Jan. 7.—The people and police of northern Vermont are on the look-out to prevent John Edwards, a colored farm hand, from reaching Canada, whither he seems to be fleeing with Kitty Marsh, aged 13, daughter of a well to do farmer. He called at school for the girl and took her out to drive.

Murderer's Suicide.

PLANO, Ills., Jan. 7.—The wife of Chas. E. Slocum recently applied for divorce on the ground of infidelity. Last night he sought her out, confessed his guilt, promised reform and begged her to return. She refused, whereupon he drew a revolver and shot himself in the head and died in ten minutes.

At Home.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—Russell Lester went from Muskogee, Indian territory, up to Vinita yesterday, to kill a man named Rutledge, with whom he had a quarrel. They met and Rutledge put the contents of a double-barreled shotgun into Lester's body and he was taken home a corpse. Rutledge was taken to Fort Smith.

A Murderer's Plea.

DENVER, Jan. 7.—Charles W. Stickney, who murdered M. T. Campau for debauching his wife, also accidentally killing Mrs. Devereau and was acquitted on the ground of insanity, tried to file a bill for divorce on grounds of adultery with Campau, but the court declined to accept it at present.

Minor Crimes.

At Bakersfield, Cal., a gambler named Mike Hays was shot in two places and is believed to be fatally wounded. The shooting was done by Johnny Williams, calling himself a cowboy.

The murderer of the Cooke family also attempted to poison a doctor in Montreal, Can., where he lived as servant. He had a quarrel with the housekeeper and put poison in the coffee which was used by the household.

At Darien, Ga., on George H. Haymon's turpentine farm, twenty miles from here, a negro entered the house while the family were at dinner and shot Haymon in the abdomen. Haymon knocked the negro down, took the pistol from him and then shot him. Both died.

Lieut. Wm. S. Scott, First cavalry, who went east from Walla Walla in November, had his leave extended one month by the war department, and Capt. G. H. Burton, Twenty-first infantry, had his leave extended two months by the same authority.

Holiday week at Vancouver Barracks was replete with amusements. First, the plays, on Tuesday night, day after Christmas, was a most worthy production. On Wednesday night several members of the Twenty-first infantry, known as the Columbia Minstrels, gave a burnt cork entertainment, which was excellent in many features, and well received. On Thursday night there was a dance, given by the officers of the post and their ladies, at which were present a number of ladies and gentlemen from Portland. It was one of the society events of the season, very successful and enjoyable. On Friday evening there was a grand concert, participated in by the Twenty-first infantry band, some violinists from Portland and the musical people of the post, several new ones coming to the front. The calls of New Year's day, and a reception at the residence of the post commandant, Gen. H. A. Morrow, closed the society events for the holiday week, which will be pleasantly remembered by all who took part.

Clipper Freights.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The clipper freight market remains much the same as noted at the close of the year. It is true there has been some inquiry from merchants who have contracts with railroads, but so far as known nothing has yet come of them, and ships have to depend upon shippers who cannot be induced to patronize railroads. Freight offerings are not very free for the reason that the season is well advanced. Still there is a fair movement in some classes of merchandise, notably bar iron shipments, which are increasing. The shipment of a thousand barrels of sugar is also noted. Freights to Portland are not very active, but the steamer Geo. S. Homer, the only vessel now loading, is doing very well and will sail about the 20th inst. The ship St. David has been withdrawn.

The freight market at Philadelphia is very quiet. There is no ship in berth nor likely to be for thirty days. The Ivy has just sailed from Liverpool.

At Boston clipper freights are also quiet. No vessel is in berth. However, all offerings are being taken care of and sent to this port for shipment on the Armenia. Railroad freights at Boston are very quiet and no shipments to note except 200 boxes candles and 120 kegs nails.

There are two quartz mills nearly completed on the Swauk, two in Peshastin and one on Nigger creek. The latter has a tunnel on its 250 feet. Work at this location had to stop by reason of the foul air. The quartz for crushing has been obtained by stoping two ore seams through which the tunnel passed.

The Northern Pacific railroad company has lately been engaged in cutting a horse trail from the railroad to the immense glaciers on the side of Mount Rainier, a distance of about twenty miles, and the work is reported to be quite two-thirds done. This trail will be open to tourists next summer, with accommodations at proper points for man and beast, and the half-way [illegible]. The opportunity thus afforded of witnessing one of the great wonders in nature is expected to attract to New Tacoma a great many visitors. The scenery at the glaciers and on the mountain side is represented as magnificent beyond description.

On account of increased orders ninety-five men are now employed at Lister & Co.'s iron works at Tacoma. The blacksmith shops are kept running night and day. A large lot of machinery for Koch's sawmill is now ready for shipment. A new and complete bolt cutter, costing $730, and manufactured at San Francisco, has been received. A lot of twenty-four inch chilled car wheels for the O. R. & N. Co., at Portland, have just been sent out. It is expected that the new engine will be up and ready for running by the first of the week. The works find it difficult to find a sufficient number of pattern makers, and on this account are retarded somewhat from the full capacity.

There is a very lively situation of affairs at the machine shops at Tacoma. The new engine and boiler, both of ninety-horse power, are now up and running very satisfactorily. The engine has a sixteen-inch cylinder and a thirty-inch stroke. These are used to drive the usual machinery, while the old engine and boiler will be transferred to the new building. An order has been received from east of the mountains for four passenger coaches and one paymaster's car, and these will be supplied at the earliest possible date. A load of 60,000 feet of car material has just arrived from down the sound, and is being transferred to the shops. An addition 24x16 feet is being made on the south of the new building for the accommodation of the boiler.

Idaho.

An English company, of which Mr. Joseph Perrault, of Boise, is the business manager, has bought the principal business portion of Weiser City, paying therefor $7200. In the spring the company will build seven or eight brick buildings for business purposes. This action on the part of the company will give a business impetus to the town it has long needed, and tend to make that place one of importance in the near future.

Mr. Peter Sheers, a well known Utah smelter, has been engaged in erecting a smelter for Messrs Ponse & Taylor at their mines in the Spring Mountain mining district, Lemhi county, Idaho. He reports the outlook in that section as very promising, and looks for a large output of ore and bullion before this season. Work on mines and prospects of this new district will be pushed during the winter, and the showing is equal to that of any camp in the Salmon river region.

The ore shipments from Wood river are fast falling off, by reason of the high freights and bad roads. What would be considered paying ore here cannot be touched in the northern camps at present. The railroad is expected to be completed to Hailey in the spring, and mine owners concluded to wait before making many more shipments at present rates. As high as $30 per ton has been paid this winter from Hailey to Blackfoot. Thirty dollar ore is not thrown away in Utah, and the day is not far distant when our Idaho neighbors will hesitate before throwing such mineral at the [illegible]. Twenty dollars a ton on ore of any grade is worth looking after, hence the falling off in northern shipments.

LAND SLIDE.

Extraordinary rains Friday night caused three land slides in the neighborhood of Rooster Rock, and interrupted traffic. The train due here at 9 o'clock Saturday morning did not get through. The track at two of the slides was cleared, but a heavy one two miles above Troutdale will require twenty-four hours of more to remove. The regular afternoon train did not leave, but a special was transferred from Albina at 3 o'clock to get the down train's passengers, who walked around the slide.

SAD ACCIDENT.

From Mr. Geo. Koster, of [illegible] we learn the following particulars of a sad accident which occurred at that place last month. Two boys, sons of Rossiter parents, were playing together, one of them having a gun loaded with buckshot. In some manner the weapon was discharged, the load striking one of the boys in the face and killing him instantly. The other boy was so scared that he ran off into the woods and hid. When his father returned he went in search of him and when he was found he was placed in the guard house for fear that he should commit suicide. An investigation of the matter resulted in a discharge of the boy.

OUR REPORTER'S VACATION NOTES.

During his rambles this season, our Mr. M. has taken up a [illegible] of the [illegible] of satisfying our numerous readers that [illegible] goods are manufactured in our [illegible] Roger Williams of [illegible] high a grade [illegible] as can be produced in any region on the globe. Especially is this so when the skill of Pharmacy of many years experience resolves to extract from the finest botanical sources of its vegetable world the most potent cure for some especial disease. In [illegible] this section that Providence affords the best, [illegible] an interview with an acquaintance, [illegible] while sojourning temporarily at her residence. She says: "About a year I suffered severely from rheumatism in my limbs, and neuralgia in the head which I endured two or three months with as much patience as possible being under the treatment of an excellent doctor, and trying many kinds of medicine without any comfort or benefit. At last a medical friend advised me to try Hunt's Remedy, because he attributed my severe suffering to the bad condition of my kidneys, which were not performing their proper functions, and I commenced taking it, and in a few days the neuralgia had departed, my headache had entirely disappeared, the swelling in my limbs and joints had gone, and I have not had a touch of it since. More recently I was troubled with impurity of the blood, which showed itself in a sore eruption on my face. I again resorted to Hunt's Remedy and after taking it a short time was completely cured of that complaint. Hunt's Remedy has proved very beneficial to me in attacks of sick headache which I was subject to, and I notice the improvement as soon as I take the Remedy. This Remedy has strengthening properties, for it has made me feel much stronger, and has been very beneficial to my general health. I most heartily recommend it to all sufferers like myself. Mrs. L. G. TANNER, No. 136 Pearl street." We safely know that Mr. W. E. Clarke, the manufacturer of Hunt's Remedy, is a skilled pharmacist of many years' experience, and a prominent member of our State Board of Pharmacy.

GREAT PRAISE.

Albert G. Hunt, of Cottage Home, Ill., says: "I have been prostrated for three or more years with kidney disease, at times I was not able to put on my boots, my wife has often pulled them on for me. I was not so bad at all the time, but I never knew what it was to be without pain in my back until I commenced using HUNT'S REMEDY. Since I began to take Hunt's Remedy I have been free from all pains, and take pleasure in saying that it is the best medicine that I ever knew for kidney and liver diseases."

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the FOLLIES OF YOUTH, Such as Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession. I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty, and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence. Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances. Lost manhood perfectly restored. Frelinghuysen Defines the Chinese Treaty to the Legation.

LIEUT CHIPP'S ARCTIC PARTY FOUND

Louisiana Committee to Urge on Government the Necessity of More Protection for Sugar

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE [illegible]

The following note has been addressed [illegible] secretary of state to the Chinese minister [illegible] subject of Chinese travelers [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr Chong Tsa [illegible] June the charge des affaires [illegible] tion Mr Tsu Chan Pang wrote to me touching the question arising under the [illegible] May [illegible] relative to the transit across the territory of the United States of Chinese laborers proceeding to or returning from Cuba and other foreign countries. I am happy to inform you that the government has reached the conclusion that the transit through the United States of Chinese [illegible] to or from their country is permissible under the act in question with certain precautions against abuses. An opinion will [illegible] have received from the attorney general sets forth the grounds on which this conclusion is reached which briefly recapitulated are as follows

The preamble to the act thereof reads:

Whereas In the opinion of the government of the United States the coming of Chinese laborers to this country endangers the good order of certain localities in the territory thereof [illegible] it is therefore upon enacted that the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States be suspended [illegible] such suspension it shall not be lawful for any Chinese laborer to come or having so come to remain within the United States

The act is based upon the treaty of the 17th of November 1880 the provisions whereof it is designed to execute. In that treaty it is provided that a modification of the existing treaty has become necessary in consequence of the increasing immigration of Chinese laborers and the embarrassments caused by such immigration, and thereupon the government of China agrees that whenever in the opinion of this government injurious effects are threatened or caused by the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States or their residence therein such coming or residence may be regulated, limited or suspended, but may not be absolutely prohibited

The treaty adds that the limitation or suspension shall be reasonable and shall apply only to Chinese who may go to the United States as laborers, other classes not being included in the limitation. Legislation taken in regard to Chinese laborers will be of such character only as is necessary to enforce the regulations of limitation or suspension of immigration, and immigrants shall not be subject to personal maltreatment. In the view of the attorney general, the act of the 6th of May 1880, being intended to carry into effect the stipulations of the treaty is to be construed in the light thereof and has reference only to the Chinese who come here to stay as laborers. It is only with immigrants and with those who come as laborers, that the treaty and the statute deals.

Looking therefore at the mischief and the remedy and the treaty and the act taken together, this government, adopting the conclusion of the attorney general, does not think that a Chinese laborer coming to this country merely to pass through it can be considered as within the prohibition of the law he being neither an immigrant nor coming here as a laborer.

With regard to the necessity of Chinese laborers in transit being provided with evidence that they are not Chinese coming here as immigrants or as laborers, the attorney general says: As the prohibition of the act applies to Chinese laborers coming into the country to stay as laborers, and as the regulations touching certificates of identification prescribed by the fourth and sixth sections are auxiliary to that end and intended to prevent frauds upon the act, and therefore applicable only to Chinese coming here for permanent or temporary residence I am of opinion that Chinese passing through this country to other countries are not required, before crossing our borders, to produce the certified certificates of identification, provided they competently prove, in some other manner that they are mere transient passengers.

Of course the certificate would dispense with other proof. The character of such proof may very properly be regulated by the secretary of the treasury. I have brought the matter in this shape to the attention of the secretary of the treasury and have requested that he will frame such regulations as may be necessary to permit the transit of Chinese laborers. As soon as the action of my colleague shall be known to me I will communicate to you. Accept sir, a renewed assurance of my high consideration

Want Protection

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—A committee composed of three of Louisiana's largest and richest sugar planters is here to urge a higher rate of duty on low grade sugars than the report of the tariff committee provides, and a very much higher rate than either the finance committee of the senate or the ways and means committee of the house propose to put in their respective tariff bills. They spent all day at the capitol discussing the sugar question with members of the house and senators from different sections of the country. They found little encouragement among democrats or republicans. They found the sentiment to be that there must be a very considerable reduction of the tariff on sugar. In vain they pointed out that the reduction proposed by the senate finance committee would ruin the planting interest of Louisiana. They were told that sugar was not a luxury, but one of the necessaries of life and that the aim was to take the burden off the shoulders of the poor rather than the rich.

There was one thing this sugar planters committee did find out and that was that if they could swap the delegation of their states they could get about what they wanted, which is a quarter of a cent per pound on low grade sugar more than the report of the tariff commission gives them. The wool, cotton and iron men and various other interests want more protection than they are likely to get, and all these interests can largely control delegations of states in which they are located. The [illegible] and [illegible], representing these interests are willing to help Louisiana members secure a higher rate of duty on sugar, provided Louisiana members help them. Now with the Louisiana members, [illegible] all democrats but two, enter into a combination of this kind to protect sugar? The two republicans will, because they believe in the protection of sugar and all other interests. The Louisiana delegation and sugar planters' committee had a conference at the [illegible] house to-night and the planters' committee read the delegation a lecture and did some tall talking to them, but they did not get them in a swapping humor. It is safe to conclude that among the articles on which the duty will be largely reduced by the tariff bill is sugar. The planters' committee is composed of ex-Gov Warmoth, John Dymond and Edward J Gay

Arctic Explorer's Remains Discovered.

WASHINGTON, Jan [illegible]—It is understood that the state department at Washington possess documents proving beyond a doubt that the persons found in [illegible] are the remains of Lieut. Chipp and party. The members of the party were all dead, and it is said papers found upon their persons gave details of their terrible sufferings up to the last moment when they were able to record them.

NEW YORK, Jan 7—The Sun has the following from Boston: A telegram has been received here from a man in Pittsburg, who is said to be perfectly trustworthy, transmitting a letter from an American in Siberia to a friend in that city

The Siberian letter is signed David L West. He says he married in Paris a Russian lady whose brother was convicted on charges of Nihilism and that he, West, obtained a pardon and went after his brother-in-law in Siberia. While searching for him, he became lost and discovered a snow hut in which was one man dead and another who soon died. He buried them and on searching the hut found an English bible with the name of "A Kuenne" in it. He also found records of the [illegible], [illegible] Peter, and a man whose name began with W. The names of Walter Sharvell, Henry D. Warren, and Peter E. Johnson appear in President Arthur's message as among the missing boat's crew of Lieut. Chipp's party. West also says that he discovered the skin boat an axe, a rifle, and some other relics of Chipp's crew. The letter is to be sent to Senator Dawes

English Ports Closed to American Cattle.

WASHINGTON, Jan 7—The cattle commission in discussing the question of admission of American store cattle to England in its report concludes. It is a vain hope that England will remove the restrictions as long as we fail to show that the last vestige of infection has been wiped out from our land, and nothing short of the undeniable death of this disease in the United States will reopen the British market to our live cattle, and save us those millions we now prodigally, and we might say in[illegible] throw away.

The report estimates a yearly loss, from the lung plague, in the United States, at from $300,000 to $800,000, and a prospective loss of $5,000 000. The capital represented by present yearly losses at five per cent, would be from $60,000,000 to $60 000 000 and that represented by prospective losses at the same rate, would be $1 300,000 000. The governing principle in all these recommendations is that the federal government shall forbid the movement of store cattle out of any infected state or district except after a quarantine, such as is now imposed on cattle imported from an infected foreign country. The report recommends that the secretary of the treasury be empowered to order the instant destruction of all cattle or other animals which in quarantine, give evidence of dangerous contagious disease

Title to California Lands in Dispute.

WASHINGTON Jan 7—In the case of Lawrence M Cate vs the Texas and Pacific railroad company, involving a title to lands in California, Commissioner McFarland holds that when lands within the limits of railroad land grants are covered by filings of record it shall be regarded as prima facie evidence of the exception of the tract from the railroad grant. An applicant making a filing or entry of a tract, subsequent to the date of the railroad grant is not required to give notice of his action to the company but his filings or entry will be placed on record subject to future compliance with the law.

John T Gamble of California through an attorney some time ago made a request to the president to remove Michael Burke from a section of land covered by Gamble's homestead entry. The application was based upon an old law passed in 1807 authorizing the president to remove intruders on public lands. The commissioner of the land office to whom the question was referred, held that the old law was still in force, but in a letter to the attorney general the secretary of the interior refuses to concur in that opinion. He holds that the law was superseded by subsequent legislation that punishment of trespassers on public land has always been effected by a resort to judicial tribunals

CINCINNATI, Jan 7—A Washington special says Representative Page in answer to a direct inquiry whether the house committee [illegible] would in the face of the report of Secretary Teller undertake to put through a river and harbor bill this year said they most assuredly would, that the committee intended to [illegible] secretary's report which would show that he had made some very wild statements. He said that among the list of harbors the secretary said would not be benefited by the expenditure [illegible] was Plymouth harbor Mass, and yet the president had sent to congress a special recommendation for this appropriation. He said it would be news to the Pacific coast that the [illegible] cannot ... [illegible] steam vessels for hundreds of miles and had a large commerce [illegible] making appropriations for all rivers and harbors where it [illegible] be exhausted by next July notwithstanding the president's [illegible]

NASHVILLE, Jan [illegible] the legislature [illegible] I was [illegible] the behalf of the state treasurer [illegible] from the [illegible] of the [illegible] before the bill was [illegible] the day before the [illegible] of the legislature

The amount of deficit in the treasury [illegible] be accurately ascertained until a thorough investigation is had. One of the [illegible] who has been examined says the accounts show thus far a deficit of $300,000. The same [illegible] says the treasury bonds and at least a [illegible] of the banks shows a discrepancy of [illegible]. Just before Christmas he [illegible] drew [illegible] at the bank [illegible] $[illegible] The state funds are distributed in various banks at Nashville, Knoxville and Memphis

[illegible] missing funds are supposed to have been lost in speculation or loaned [illegible] in speculation in bonds and stocks. Treasurer Polk left Nashville Wednesday and was last heard of in Milan from which point he wrote back that he would return Saturday. His family know his whereabouts

Treasurer Polk is 55 years old a graduate of West Point, and served four years on the frontier. He was captain of an artillery company in the confederate army in Cheatham's division and lost a leg at the battle of Shiloh. He afterwards served on the staff of Gen Leonidas Polk to whom he is related. After the war he lived on a farm near Bolivar, Tenn until six years ago. He was a nephew of the late President Polk. He has a large family and he occupied a high social position in the city and state

Governor Hawkins in reply to the inquiry if steps would be taken for the apprehension of the absconding treasurer said no application had been made for his apprehension and therefore his action depends upon the character of the application when made

The books in the treasurer's office are in good condition. The only question is the amount of deficit which can be ascertained in to-morrow's investigation in a comparatively short time

EXAMINATION TO BE MADE

The house has adopted resolutions for a full, complete and searching examination of the affairs of the state treasurer. It is proven that the defalcation began five years ago that one check drawn by the treasurer for $37 000 went to pay for his interest in a silver mine in Mexico and it is believed he also paid for another interest of a partner. It is known that $1 5 000 of public funds belonging to the treasurer's account are deposited in two Nashville banks and it is hoped that other sums may be in other banks. Polk was a large speculator

Representative Millikan of the investigation committee, says the deficit in the treasurer's account is over $400 000 including $60 000 in United States bonds which are missing. Polk began stealing five years ago and increased it rapidly. After the passage of the 1882 funding bill there were many speculations in New York. Major J Conner killed in Knoxville last November owes Polk $40 000. Polk paid out the state money for exchange on San Francisco with which to pay for his silver mine in Mexico. Checks were found in the safe with no evidence that they had passed off. The comptroller books show the Mechanics bank, of Knoxville owes the state $15 000 but the bank claims to have paid the money to O Connor after that. The missing U S bonds were 7-30s. Polk was interested with O Conner in the Gadsden Ore bank, but the stock was in O'Connor's name, although $10 000 of it was paid for out of the state treasury. Thousands of dollars of checks show they were drawn by M T Polk treasurer and payable to M T Polk, but not countersigned by the comptroller

NEW YORK, Jan 6—There is much stir in Wall street over Tennessee's treasurer's defalcations. It is not discovered that he speculated in Wall street much beyond that he bought heavily of Tennessee bonds and persuaded his friends to do the same. Clipper Freights.

NEW YORK Jan 6—The clipper freight market remains much the same as noted at the close of the year. It is true there has been some inquiry from merchants who have contracts with railroads but so far as known nothing has yet come of them and ships have to depend upon shippers who cannot be induced to patronize railroads. Freight offerings are not very [illegible] for the reason that the season is well advanced. But there is a fair movement in some classes of merchandise, notably bar iron [illegible] rails, which are increasing. The shipment of a thousand barrels of sugar is also noted. Freights to Portland are not very active but the steamer G[illegible] Homer the only vessel now loading, is doing very well and will sail about the 20th inst. The ship St David has been withdrawn. The freight market at Philadelphia is very quiet. There is no ship in berth nor likely to be for thirty days. The Ivy has just sailed from Liverpool. At Boston clipper freights are also quiet. No vessel is in berth. However all offerings are being taken care of and sent to the [illegible] for shipment on the Armenia. Railroad freights at Boston are very quiet and no shipments to note except 200 boxes candles and 110 kegs nails.

[illegible] coal [illegible] at Tacoma. The blacksmith shops are kept running night and day. A large lot of machinery for Koch's sawmill is ready for shipment. A new and complete belt cutter, costing $700 and manufactured at San Francisco has been received. A lot of twenty [illegible] inch [illegible] wheels for the O R & N Co at Portland have just been sent out. It is expected that the new engine will be up and ready for running by the first of the week. The works find it difficult to find a sufficient number of pattern makers and on this account are retarded somewhat from the full capacity

There is a very lively situation of affairs at the machine shops at Tacoma. The new engine and boiler both of ninety horse power, are now up and running very satisfactorily. The engine has a sixteen inch cylinder and a thirty inch stroke. These are used to drive the usual machinery while the old engine and boiler will be transferred to the new building. An order has been received from east for the mouldings for four passenger coaches and one [illegible] when they will be supplied at the earliest possible date. A load of 60 000 feet of car material has just arrived from down the sound, and is being transferred to the shops. An addition 38x110 feet is being made to the shops north of the new building for the accommodation of the boiler

An English company of which Mr J seph Perrault [illegible] is the business manager has bought the principal business portion of Weiser City paying therefor $7 500 and in the spring the company will build seven or eight brick buildings for business purposes. This action on the part of the company will give a business impetus to the town it has long needed and tend to make that place one of importance in the near future

Mr Peter She[illegible] a well known Utah smelter has been engaged in erecting a smelter for Messrs Pease & Taylor at their mines in the Spring Mountain mining district Lemhi county Idaho. He reports the outlook in that section as very promising and looks for a large output of ore and bullion this season. Work on a new and proper [illegible] this new district will be pushed during the winter and the showing is equal to that of any camp in the Salmon river region

The ore shipments from Wood river are fast falling off by reason of the high freights and bad roads. What would be considered paying ore here are not being shipped in the northern camps at present. The railroad is expected to be completed to Hailey by the spring, and mine owners concluded to wait before making many more shipments at present. As high as $40 per ton has been paid this winter from Hailey to Blackfoot. Thirty dollar ore is not [illegible] to Utah and the day is not far distant when the Idaho freighters will hesitate before the [illegible] rates of any grade is worth [illegible] the falling off in northern shipments
